

We can finally reveal the name of the winner of our Eco Junk competition but before we do, we would like to share all the wonderful and clever entries we received.

It's a p-p-p-penguin !
Cleverly, made from a plastic bottle and lots of cotton wool. It could be used as a wool dispenser!

Madina
AbdulShakkur

A very interesting model of a rocket with an inbuilt satellite that can actually be removed! All made from recycled paper and card.

Hrikkrish Biswas

In true Halloween spirit, this clever model of a creepy house is made from a plastic bottle and paper. Super-spooky!

Ayan Samatar

Demonstrating their great knowledge about the Romans, this model is of a sharp dagger called a 'gladius' which roman gladiators/soldiers would have carried with them.

Abdullah Fahim

So, the winner of the Eco Recycle competition is...
(drum roll)...Faheem Shaikh from 6 Yew!

This stunning lantern was skilfully made from plastic, card and beads for decoration. He has added a handle using a pipe cleaner and topped it off sophisticatedly with a heart knob! We even put in a battery powered tea light inside and it looked perfect! Congratulations Faheem!

Hope you have been inspired by these fantastic creations and can now start getting busy with your own. Keep your ears open for the next Eco competition!
